RE:NEW Releases Its Fourth Issue of RE:NEW Magazine
Theme focuses on the Church, "The Bride of Christ"

ROWLAND HEIGHTS, Calif., April 8, 2015 --- RE:NEW has launched its fourth issue of RE:NEW Magazine on the topic of the church, "The Bride of Christ". Today's culture is fascinated by sacred places and is desperate for community, but there has hardly been a time such as this (aside from times of religious persecution) when the Church has been so ill received. Separation of church and state has quickly become a move for separation of church and God, and young people today are leaving the church in droves.

This year's issue seeks to bring readers a fresh perspective on the church and to rekindle a love for the body of Christ, as it will be centered around the church and the church body. Integrating biblical/theological definitions of the church alongside integrative and (embodied) experiences of church life and Christian community, RE:NEW hopes that this issue will bring healing, reconciliation, and an abiding affection for church communities today.

RE:NEW Magazine is an annual magazine that is a collaboration between volunteer writers and designers who contribute their own personal stories, insights, and talents, to share how Jesus Christ has and can impact lives. The magazine has a large subscription base throughout the state of California and a sizable following from the surrounding states. It is most widely circulated in the local community, in educational institutions, and in churches, and is also being made available in Hong Kong, China.

RE:NEW, which started in 2011, is based in Southern California and works alongside Presence and its other initiatives. For more information, visit www.RenewTheResponse.org.
